

ROSS POWELL

Technology Account Director, Property Management, JLLT.

From the early days of property .dot Coms, to the first property smartphone apps, to AI in property services – Ross has over 20 years experience in every aspect of digital property services. Having worked with all of the big names in the UK, Ross has just completed his 10 year anniversary at JLL, heading up the commercial property management technology offering in UK, Europe and middle east at an exciting time.

Ross works with clients and business to realise best value from the technology available as well as spotting the road ahead for digital buildings and services and supporting client agendas through the leading tech offering of JLLT.